The students of Loyola College are cordially invited to attend a mixer at Notre Dame College on Friday, November 3 from 9 'til 12. The mixer will be held in Le Clerc Hall, and music will be provided by the Melodeons. Refreshments will be served and admission is free.

Opera Time

Anyone interested in obtaining tickets for the Baltimore Civic Opera at student rates should see Fred Koenig or John Ryan.

Prohibition Daze

The Prohibition Daze Dance will be held Saturday, January 27.

Pope Requests Volunteers For Latin American Aid

On Monday, November 6th at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the New Cathedral School there will be a get-together of all those interested to learn something about "The Papal Volunteers for Latin America."

In March of this year, Pope John XXIII summoned the Superiors General of religious orders to a special audience and urged them to send missionaries to Latin America "in the greatest numbers possible." "The problem demands a decisive program on the part of everyone. Tomorrow could be too late."

Latin Movie

A brief movie will be shown and Father John J. Considine, M. M., Director of the Latin American Bureau of the NCWC and Head of PAVLA, will speak concerning the problems of South America, and the special charge given to the Catholic Laity of the United States.

Mr. Frank X. Moritz will represent Loyola at a Papal Council meeting, next week.

Loyola Represented

Mr. Frank X. Moritz, Guidance Counsellor of Loyola, will represent the College at this most important meeting. Anyone interested in learning more about this Lay Organization (PAVLA), what its goals are, and how it hopes to achieve them through self-sacrifice and intelligence of the laity, is cordially invited to attend this informative meeting.

Father Beatty, President of Loyola, strongly urges all Loyola men to consider this organization as an excellent means of Catholic Action, and education.

Council Debates Rathskeller Issue

Last Friday at 10 a.m. in the Student Center Lounge, the Student Council held its weekly meeting. Because of the absence of both regular faculty advisors, Captain Frydendall of the Military Science Department was Acting Faculty Advisor.

Old Business

The "old business" considered by the Council concerned activities' budgets and the cut system. The former was ruled out of order because it violated an Article of the Constitution. It will be considered at a future meeting. The latter motion, after much discussion, was tabled pending a report from the Student Affairs Committee concerning the cut system. Further developments concerning these motions will be published in THE GREYHOUND.

New Business

Mr. Baynes, President of the Student Council, introduced a motion to rescind Mr. Slawski's motion of the previous meeting concerning the establishment of a Rathskeller at Evergreen. As Mr. Baynes began to elaborate on his motion, the bell rang and the meeting was adjourned.

Booters Down Jays 1-0; Harrier Tourney Coming

Last Wednesday, the Hound Booters met the University of Baltimore at B.U.'s home field in Mount Washington. Although the Loyola team wound up on the short end of a 6-1 score, Sam Amato stole the show for the Hounds by footing a spectacular shot into the nets from the mid-field line. Last Saturday the team traveled to nearby Homewood, the home of the Hopkins' Blue Jays. Both teams threw up rugged defenses, and neither team found the nets until the final part of the second half.

Cage Ducats Ready Soon

The Athletic Department has announced that season tickets for the Hound basketball games will be available beginning next Monday, Nov. 5th. The season books may be obtained at the Athletic Office. They are free for Loyola College students, who need only to show their school registration cards to obtain their season books. These tickets, however, do not cover the December Invitational Basketball Tournament. Tourney ticket prices will be announced in the near future.

Last Friday afternoon, Nap Doherty held the first scrimmage of the year for his cagers. As usual at this stage of the season, the offense was far ahead of the defense.

The game ended with a 1-0 score, but this time it was Loyola on top. Left Halfback Mike Elliot hammered the goal from twenty-five feet out with fifteen minutes remaining in the game. The Hound defense held the Jays scoreless for the rest of the contest to preserve Loyola's first victory of the season.

Last week the Hound harriers met the Morgan Bears in a thrilling practice meet. Rick Frampton, pressed by Morgan's Perry, broke his own course record by 25 seconds with a phenomenal 15:52. Perry, who led until the last 350 yards, also cracked the course record by 15 seconds.

Loyola Invitational

Next Saturday, November 11th, the annual Loyola Invitational Crosscountry Tournament will be run here at Evergreen. Almost all of the Mason-Dixon schools will send competitors to this always exciting crosscountry race.

Rifle Team Wins

Loyola's ROTC shooters posted their second straight win this past Friday by beating the visiting Howard University by a scant four points, 1363 to 1359. This was Howard's first defeat while Loyola hasn't lost yet.

Paul Schlick with 277 and Dennis Homberg with 276 led the team. Other scorers were Norman Williams (274), Nathan Tinanoff (268), and James Giley (268). Both Paul and Denny will have their names engraved on the "275 Club" plaque which is on display in the rifle range, for shooting 275 or more in a single match.

It took last year's team seven starts before they had registered their second win. But counting last year's good finish, the team has won now 9 out of their last 13 matches. They are un-defeated in their two matches fired so far this season.

No Coach Yet

The Hound wrestling team has not as yet found a coach. Athletic Director Lefty Reitz is still looking for the man to fill the vacancy left by the departure of last season's popular mentor, Dick Clem, who is now teaching and coaching at Southern High. Anyone interested in the position, whether he is an alumnus or not, is asked to apply to the Athletic Department.

BRAWNY BOOTERS—Kosiorek and Amato were outstanding for The Hounds during B. U. tilt.

Intramurals

By Jim Latchford

The intramural Bowling League is in its 4th week of play and Willie's Nemesis continues to hold its slim lead with an 8 and 4 record. Charlie Nemecek is leading the Willie's Nemesis with a 112 game average. In second place are the Foul Line Five and the Woodchuckers who have identical records of 7 wins and 5 losses. The fifth place Willie's Winners are 6 and 6, and Sam and Friends and the Hi Fi's are bringing up the rear with 4 and 8 logs.

Football News

There were only two touch football games scheduled last week. The 1.5's and the Viking were both declared winners by forfeit from the Comics and the Bloodclots.

STICKS AND STONES

I have been informed that some of the Student Council members did discuss the Millbrook parking motion with their constituents before passage of that resolution. To these members, who have been accused of not doing their duty, apologies are in order, and I make them publicly at this time. But I still maintain what I said about the deteriorious effects of low caliber resolutions on the effectiveness of the Council as a governing body.

There definitely exists a problem about the resolutions of the council, but I will repeat that they are not completely to blame. Many of the difficulties which the members have faced this year were brought on through some faults existing in the student body itself. They seem to abuse any and all of the privileges which are granted to them. This fact may be responsible for the Administration's lack of respect for the Council.

Therefore, I should like to make several suggestions:

1. Have the student council post a copy of their agenda for the following meeting in prominent places, not the Xavier lounge bulletin board, but in the Library building and the Student Center every week at a specific time, which time should give the students an opportunity to contact their representatives before the council meetings.
2. Have the council also post a copy of the minutes of the previous week's meeting at the same time and in the same place as the agenda.

And to the student body, I make the following appeals:

1. Take an interest in the affairs of the student council. They are your business (sic). They affect your interests (sic).
2. If the council heeds my suggestions take advantage of the opportunity to keep informed.
3. See your representatives before the council meetings each week and express your opinions on student affairs and the reason for these opinions. The council can best serve you if, and only if, you let them know what you think and why. G. P. M.

Bird's Beat

Today is the first anniversary of "A Word From Bird." This first year has been a very enjoyable and beneficial one for the Bird. He hopes it has been as enjoyable and beneficial for his readers. Students are realizing that as their vocabulary grows they increase the comprehension of what they read. Very often we come across words with which we are not familiar, and just as often we pass them over. It is possible for one word to change the whole meaning of a sentence or even a paragraph. But you say, "I don't have time to look up the words I don't know." This is a very bad habit to have, but not a hard one to break; just have a dictionary handy when you read. This is not an impossible task. When reading in the library, use the dictionaries setting on the tables; when reading at home use the "Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary" which we all bought in our Freshman year. Many people carry pocket dictionaries for quick, succinct definitions. Becoming "word conscious" of new words is half the battle. After this first barrier is conquered, you will be surprised and pleased at how many words you are able to pick up. Then the daily words posted here at school will become supplements in your own vocabulary building program.

Well, "Bird" watchers, I have a sad tale to relate. One of our loyal members who is able to spell a countless number of common uncommon words misspelled an easy five letter word in his column last week--namely Bird's last name. It is "Kloch," not "Klotch." Let's watch that "Dog."

Remember starting this week is your chance to become an official "Bird" watcher. Take the quiz in the space provided and then look for Bird. If you are one of the first three people to see Bird with the correct answers you will have your name printed in the GREYHOUND next week.

Here is this week's quiz;

- | | |
|---------------|----------------|
| A. expiate | 1. reconcile |
| B. pernicious | 2. abridgement |
| C. epitome | 3. harmful |
| D. noxious | 4. noxious |

Place your answers here-
(A--; B--; C- ; D-)

If you did not know all the words, check the posters Monday for the answers.

Baltimore is the capital of Maryland, or at least a not inconsiderable number of people believe it is. Of course we college men know that Annapolis is the capital of our fair state. But all to few really appreciate the beauty and historic value of our capital. This city is one of the most validly historical spots on the eastern seaboard. Its buildings are older and more authentic than Williamsburg. Not very many people appreciate this value.

To remedy this lack of appreciation, Historic Annapolis has been formed. All during the month of October, this group has been sponsoring lectures and tours which were designated to bring out the historic value of Annapolis (not to mention the economic value).

Alley Cat

The final activity of the month was a play by Thomas Sheridan of Smack Alley. The title of this endeavor was "The Brave Irishman or Captain O'Blunder." In the modern mind blunder might be a more apt name. However, the value of the performance was not its dramatic merit, but the fact that the show was presented as it was in the colonies. This made it well worth the price of admission.

The play was performed in exact duplication of the manner of the presentations prevalent in the 1770's. The sets were changed before the audience--their simplicity was startling. The acting technique was far from polished. Actors often openly addressed the audience completely ignoring the other members of the cast. They had no regard for modes de theatre' which are considered de regueur today.

Simple Blunder

The part of Capt. O'Blunder was something less than Miller or Williams; the direction was not Kazan or Catalbo; the acting was not Barrymore or Fairbanks. However it is American. It is part of our relatively short history. It is xaucous, unpolished but enjoyable. The stark simplicity of the frontierbard is easily discernable in the front tiers of American theatre. E. J. S.

the Watchdog

The year 1941 must live in every American's mind as one of the most infamous in all of history. It was in this year that the United States entered one of the great conflicts of its young life and in this year that plans were laid for some of the most gigantic invasions ever planned. This year was truly a bitter year for American Military personnel. But something also happened to give them hope for the future, for it was in this infamous year of 1941 that a great hope for the Army and a brilliant future for Loyola College came forth. This wonderful . . . oh, shucks--Happy Birthday, Rick Campbell!

The Management Club sends us word that it is currently sponsoring a plan to get a barber who would cut hair at our College. We aren't surprised because we knew, after the Coke machines arrived, that they were turning this place into a clip joint!!!

joint!!!

Ed Conery claims that the fallout rate is going up all the time; still, with any luck, he may have some hair left by the time he is thirty. Huh, Ed?

It seems that our feathered friend, "the bird," is trying to start something again. Maybe we can start a little battle, Bird. Unless you are chicken!!! P. A. G.
